SHAPA Announces the winners of the 2017 Solids Handling Industry Awards

Innovation Award

Russell Finex continued to build upon its reputation as global leaders and innovators of Sieving technology with the development of the Russell AMPRO Sieve Station™. This new development was designed with the unique and evolving requirements of the 3D printing industry in mind, this unique powder handling and recovery system provides enhancements in operator safety, useability and sieving throughput, allowing the further development of 3D printing.

Export Award

Perry of Oakley have demonstrated a significant increase in their Export revenues during 2016. Their export revenue grew substantially in 2016 providing significant increases in revenue compared to 2015. This greatly contributed to the overall growth of the company in 2016. In addition, during 2016 they also added the additional export territories of Serbia and the Netherlands while developing new areas in Southern Africa and Greece.

SHAPA Company of the Year

Within 10 years Vortex Global Ltd has gone from a start-up company within the UK with little or no market presence or brand recognition to a primary Bulk Solids component supplier throughout the UK, Europe, Asia, and Oceania. The company has increased sales turnover significantly since 2014 with the growth starting in the UK and now branching out across the world. This success can be attributed to their business dedication and creating value through win-win relationships with their clients.
